Singapore Airlines deepens role at AI amid record losses

MIHIR MISHRA
April 23

SINGAPORE AIRLINES (SIA) is deepening its operational involvement in Air India, as the carrier battles record losses and recent safety lapses draw increasing concern, according to people familiar with the matter.

SIA has moved some of its employees into Air India, placing its executives in key roles across flight operations, engineering and maintenance in recent months — areas where the Singaporean carrier has long been considered a global benchmark, said the people, who asked not to be identified as they aren't allowed to speak to the media.

While relying on its minority shareholder for operational support, Tata Group, which owns 74.9% of Air India, is focusing on commercial, human resources, finance and information technology functions, the people said.

The shift, the people said, marks a notable escalation in SIA's engagement since the deadly Dreamliner crash, moving it from a strategic partner to a far more hands-on presence inside India's flag carrier. Singapore Airlines stepped up

ACTIVE ROLE

■ Singapore Airlines (SIA) has moved some of its employees into Air India, placing its executives in key roles across flight operations, engineering and maintenance

■ Tata Group, which owns 74.9% of Air India, is focusing on commercial, human resources, finance and information technology functions

■ The shift marks a notable escalation in SIA's engagement since the deadly Dreamliner crash, moving it from a strategic partner to a far more hands-on presence inside the flag carrier its involvement last year with engineering and has since then expanded across other functions at Air India.

"We have been working closely with our partner Tata Sons to support Air India's transformation programme" since the Singaporean carrier became a significant minority partner in the carrier, a spokesperson for Singapore Airlines said in an emailed statement. The representative declined to comment on specific queries on Air India's finances and operations.

Spokespersons for Tata Sons — the group's holding firm — and Air India did not comment on emailed queries.

The deeper role comes at a time when Air India's revival — one of the most ambitious turnaround efforts in global aviation — is proving far more complex and costly than the Tata Group expected when it won the bid to acquire the airline from the Indian government in 2021.

With losses swelling to roughly $2.4 billion last year, repeated regulatory lapses, and a series of external shocks disrupting operations, Singapore Airlines now has both the incentive and the urgency to step in.

Its own earnings have been hit by Air India's performance, and the Southeast Asian carrier is keen to check further deterioration of its 25.1% stake. The airline earlier said that losses from associated companies, mostly from Air India, were $5178 million ($139 million) in the December quarter but that it's "firmly committed" to working with Tata to support Air India's transformation.

The lack of visibility on when Air India can turn a profit is an issue of growing worry for Singapore Airlines, the people said. —BLOOMBERG

Amazon to invest ₹2.8K cr to expand India footprint

FE BUREAU
Bengaluru, April 23

BUSINESS UPDATE

■ The latest investment follows Amazon India's ₹2,000 cr (about $233 mn) commitment in 2025

■ The investment will be used to expand and upgrade Amazon's operations network and improve workforce safety and financial welfare

■ The company's broader plan to invest more than $35 billion across all its businesses in India through 2030

■ The fresh capital will also be deployed to more than double Amazon Now's footprint across the country

AMAZON INDIA SAID on Thursday it is planning to invest over ₹2,800 crore (around $300 million) to expand and upgrade its operations network, and improve workforce safety and financial welfare. The company will look to scale up fulfilment centres, sortation hubs and last-mile delivery stations across the country, particularly in tier-2 and tier-3 cities where e-commerce demand is rising rapidly but logistics remains uneven.

Amazon said the wider network will help improve delivery speeds and expand capacity beyond the large cities. Three in every five new shoppers since 2020 come from cities designated tier-3 or smaller, according to a report from Bain & Co last year. The seller base is also diversifying, with 60% of new sellers hailing from tier-2 or smaller cities since 2021, it adds.

The fresh investment follows Amazon India's ₹2,000 crore (about $233 million) commitment in 2025, which added 17 new fulfilment centres, six sortation centres, and 75 last-mile delivery stations.

"We have also been scaling Amazon Now, our quick commerce offering, at a pace of nearly two sites per day, reaching over 300 micro-fulfilment centres designed for ultra-fast deliveries across Delhi NCR, Bengaluru, and Mumbai," the company said in a blog post.

The fresh capital will also be deployed to more than double Amazon Now's footprint in cities it currently operates in and expand to more cities across India this year. The investment comes as India's quick commerce market gets increasingly competitive, led by players such as Blinkit (Zomato), Zepto and Swiggy Instamart.

These players have invested heavily to build dense dark-store networks focused on high-frequency grocery and essentials, while Amazon's assortment remains broader. Besides Amazon, other e-commerce incumbents such as Flipkart, JioMart and Nykaa, are also aggressively investing to catch up to their new-age rivals in the quick delivery segment.

Mumbai may need a third airport, says Navi Mumbai airport CEO

AKBAR MERCHANT
Mumbai, April 23

MUMBAI MAY REQUIRE a third airport as passenger demand in the Mumbai Metropolitan Region (MMR) continues to outpace existing and planned capacity, according to B V J K Sharma, CEO of Navi Mumbai

International Airport (NMIA). Speaking at the Airport 360 Expo held in Mumbai, Sharma said "there is still room for a third airport", flagging a widening gap between demand and infrastructure in one of India's busiest aviation markets.

The MMR is estimated to generate passenger demand of around 180 million, while capacity from the two airports, the NMIA and the existing airport is expected to reach about 150 million at full utilisation. NMIA alone is being developed with a planned capacity of 90 million passengers, complementing the existing airport's roughly 60 million.

Adani Energy profit tops estimate at ₹684 cr in Q4

RAGHAVENDRA KAMATH
Mumbai, April 23

ADANI ENERGY SOLUTIONS beat analyst estimates with a 6% jump in net profit in Q4 FY26 at ₹684 crore compared to ₹647 crore in Q4 FY25. On a q-o-q basis, profits rose 24%. Analysts had pegged net profit at ₹663 crore.

The company also beat estimates on the revenue front with a 17% y-o-y rise at ₹7,443 crore in Q4 compared to ₹6,375 crore in the year-ago period.

Its Ebitda, meanwhile, came in 16% higher at ₹2,145 crore, lower than the estimate of ₹2,297 crore.

"We are pleased to have delivered robust performance in FY26, underpinned by consistent operational execution and disciplined capital management," Kandarpat Patel, chief executive officer, Adani Energy Solutions said.

During the quarter, the company commissioned five transmission projects, including the Mumbai High-Voltage Direct Current (HVDC) project, making them the only private sector player in the country to have executed two HVDC projects, Patel said. During the year, it also crossed the deployment of 10 million smart meters, he added.

Patel said the company is also pursuing energy solutions for commercial and industrial (C&I) segments by offering them customised and reliable power offerings. It is already serving about three dozen customers across segments with aggregate load demand of 1400 MW.

Gaming rules ease compliance, but oversight gaps flagged

ANEEES HUSSAIN & OJASVI GUPTA
Bengaluru/New Delhi, April 23

GAME ON

■ Promotion and Regulation of Online Gaming Rules, 2026 will come into effect from May 1

■ The framework adopts what MeitY Secretary S Krishnan described as a regulation-light approach, narrowing the scope of mandatory scrutiny

■ A key change comes from the 17 provision on material change

■ Registration validity has also been extended to 10 years from five earlier new formats. A key change comes from the rollback of the draft Rule 17 provision on material change, which had drawn criticism for its expansive scope. The October 2025 draft required companies to notify the regulator of any change in game features or monetisation models, with firms warning that even minor tweaks could raise compliance costs by 20-30% for early-stage players. The final rules restrict such notifications to payment-related changes, including stakes, monetary winnings, and external monetisation of in-game assets. "This is a practical and much-needed correction. Limiting it to payment-related changes reduces notification fatigue and aligns regulatory focus with areas that directly impact user money and trust," said Rohit Agarwal, founder and director of Alpha Zegus.

Registration validity has also been extended to 10 years from five earlier. "Renewal cycles carry real costs, including legal review, regulatory filings and internal audits, which fall disproportionately on smaller studios," said Aniket Ghosh, partner at King Stubb & Kasiva.

Some concerns on governance remain. The Authority will be chaired by a MeitY additional secretary, with joint secretaries from multiple ministries as members, while the appellate authority rests with the MeitY secretary. This effectively keeps appeals within the same administrative structure.

Jay Sayta, a technology and gaming lawyer, said the industry "will now be wary of being subjected to excessive regulatory and compliance burden at the whims and fancies of OGAI, which consists only of bureaucrats". Manish Agarwal, board member at the Game Developer Association of India, pointed to the "absence of an independent appellate mechanism and the broad scope for rule-making through codes of practice," noting that Rule 6 allows such codes across payments, data retention and user safety without a formal consultation process.

Industry executives, however, said the framework provides clearer segmentation between real-money gaming and video gaming-led formats. Rajan Navani, chairman of JetSynthesys and president of the Indian Digital Gaming Society, said the policy "creates a clear structural distinction between video gaming-led interactive entertainment and other formats," improving predictability for long-term growth. Nitish Mitter-sain, joint MD and CEO of Nazara Technologies, called the framework "a strong, forward-looking step," while Anuj Tandon of BITKRAFT Ventures said it would support investor confidence.

Newera Hospitals gets backing from Premji Invest

● Undisclosed amount invested in healthcare bet

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Mumbai, April 23

PREMJI INVEST on Thursday announced an investment in Maharashtra's Newera Hospitals to help it expand capacity.

Premji Invest did not disclose the amount of capital investment. The 2016-incorporated entity, which runs two hospitals in Nagpur and Navi Mumbai currently, is aiming to put three new hospitals in Maharashtra's second capital, Nagpur, according to a statement.

The investment from the platform is backed by industrialist Azim Premji will help take the overall capacity of Newera to 800 beds from 350 beds currently.

"Structural gaps in India's healthcare delivery system persist. Nagpur, in particular, requires a higher bed density and an improvement in hospital infrastructure," PI's partner and head of healthcare and life sciences division, Prakash Chellam, said.

The statement said Newera has established strong clinical credibility in complex specialties, including neurosciences, transplant, and cardiology.

"We have always believed that quality quaternary care should not be a privilege restricted to patients in the larger cities. This investment gives us the infrastructure runway to fulfil that promise at scale," Newera Co-founder Dr Anand Sancheti said.
